There is a new part numbering system in town

After 40 years we have outgrown our part numbering system. We have tweaked it and changed it as we ran out of both letters and numbers but finally, we have had our Y2K moment. Our Ready Made range has necessitated that we move to a part numbering system that is based on seats rather than every vehicle having its own part number.

If car manufacturers could make the jump from 6v to 12v (and now to 24v or possibly 48v) then surely we should be able to pull this off.

The new part numbering system will be comprised of 3 letters followed by 4 numbers. We also still have an option to put a full stop in and then the picture number.

The 3 letters will refer to vehicle make and will generally be the first 3 letters in the name.

The 4 numbers will distinguish what pattern we actually use and that is the most important part.

- 1000 series numbers will be the first row of seat (i.e. fronts)
- 5000 series numbers will be the second row of seats (i.e. rears in 5 seaters and middles in 7 seaters)
- 9000 series numbers will be the third row of seats (i.e. rears in 7 seaters)

This new system will be phased in immediately for all new patterns and we will also be changing some of our existing patterns to reflect the new look part numbers.

For instance, the Ford Ranger Dual Cab XLT fronts that had an "old" part number of CF453.102c has been rebirthed as a FOR1003.102c. The rears for the same vehicle had an "old" part number of CF453.907 and have become FOR5001.907.

To really understand why we are doing this you should consider at the same time the (UR Series) Mazda BT50 XTR dual cab that had the "old" part numbers CZ215.102c for fronts and CZ215.907 for rears. These seats are the same as the Ford Ranger XLT listed above. The "new" BT50 XTR part numbers are MAZ1003.102c for the front and MAZ5001.907 for the rear. You will see that they share the same numbers as the Ranger and the letters just serve as a check measure.

This will allow you to very quickly see where the same seats are being used across multiple brands which has become common place.

If you have any questions please reach out to our friendly customer service team for advice.

Peter Sperling
